

Woodward & Lothrop

New York—WASHINGTON—Paris

Additional New Items from the January Sale of Linens

In our early announcement we promised you that we would bring forward new items from time to time, and these are in confirmation of that promise—all splendid values.

Hand-loomed Irish Damask Pattern Cloths and Napkins One-Third Less Regular Prices

Handsome and fine in quality. Strictly hand-loom goods, proven by the fact that the word "Hand-loom" is woven in the margin of the cloth and napkins, in accordance with a law of Great Britain, for which there is a penalty when violation is cited.

These Cloths and Napkins are in new and handsome designs:

Louis XV, Sheraton, Chippendale, Regency, Rococo, Acanthus, Scroll, Early English, Queen Anne and Empire. In sizes 2x2, 2x2½, 2x3, 2½x2½ and 2½x3 yards, also 34 Napkins.

All One-third Under Price.

Special Values in Damask Napkins.	Double Damask Irish Pattern Cloths.
22-inch ...$3.00 dozen	Extra quality and extra value; fine patterns.
24-inch ...$3.30 dozen	2x2 yards$3.50
22-inch ...$3.30 dozen	2x2½ yards$4.50
26-inch ...$5.00 dozen	2½x2½ yards$4.50

Second Floor—Downstairs.

Card Table Covers

500 Cards Table Covers, in sizes to fit regular size tables; white and tan.
55c each. Usually 65c and 75c.

Bath Towels,

One-third Under Price

Another shipment of Bath Towels, subject to such defects as oil spots and dropped stitches. The value of these is well known to our patrons.

6 for75c	6 for$1.75
6 for$1.25	6 for$2.00
6 for$1.50	6 for$2.25

6 for $2.50.

Hemstitched Damask

Tea Doilies or Napkins

These were bought and received some time ago, but placed in reserve for our January sale; much better quality than the prices call for.

$3.00, $3.50, $3.75, $4.50 and $6.00 dozen.

Sale of C. B. Sample Corsets

About three dozen pairs of the well known C. B. Corsets, in splendid models, including low and medium bust and elastic girdle tops. Many of them have the addition of elastic inserts at top or through hip and back, as necessary for the ease and comfort of the wearer. Made of fine coutils, batistes and broches, and in medium sizes only—20 to 26.

Special prices, $3.00, $3.50, and $5.00 pair.

Regular prices, $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00.

DENIES DANGER FROM PHILIPPINES FREEDOM

Secretary Garrison Says Recent Up- rising Is No More Significant Than I. W. W. Troubles Here.

Secretary of War Garrison turned the tables on the minority of the Senate Philippines Committee yesterday, telling them when they are supposed to be on the stand, and denying them to prove the elements of danger in granting the Philippines independence did not exist with equal force with regard to the United States.

"That would not be a question of when they shall be fit for self-government, but of when they shall be fit for self-government," he said, "I know that the Philippines are not fit for self-government, but I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

"I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either," he said, "I know that the United States is not fit for self-government either."

BLEASE BREAKS UP MILITIA OF STATE

Unofficial Reports Tell of Disbanding of South Carolina Organization. War Department Unadvised.

Unofficial reports reached here late yesterday that Cole Blease, governor of South Carolina, has disbanded the militia organizations of the State. No notice to this effect has yet reached the War Department.

Federal contributions to the support of the South Carolina militia was cut off last year following a controversy between the governor and the War Department.

Federal inspectors reported that large quantities of Federal property assigned to the South Carolina militia could not be accounted for by the State.

The South Carolina militia figured in connection with President Wilson's inauguration. Gov. Blease refusing to let it participate in the parade after he found out that it was not the militia of the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

The South Carolina militia was disbanded by the State, and the militia of the State was disbanded by the State.

WOMEN ASK VETO FOR IMMIGRATION MEASURE

Miss Addams and Other Social Workers Call on President—Hopeful from His Reply.

Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, headed a delegation of women settlement workers yesterday called upon President Wilson to veto the immigration bill.

The delegation, headed by Miss Addams, consisted of Mrs. William J. Lloyd, Mrs. Herbert Phipps, Mrs. M. H. Wymouth, and Miss Florence Holbrook, social service workers of Chicago.

Miss Addams told the President that one reason for opposing the bill was that it would place a bar against the practice of social work.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

The President's reply was that he would consider the bill, but that he would not veto it.

LOVE WIFE FACES TAKE DOWN AFTER

Prosecutor Asks Grand Jury to Indict Mrs. Rogers.

SEEKS POISON BUYER LOCATED NEAR RAILWAY

Attorney Believes Woman Was Not Actual Purchaser of Mercury Tablets.

New York, Jan. 11.—Whether a second party had anything to do with the purchase of the bichloride of mercury tablets with which Mrs. Rogers' husband, Mr. Rogers, killed her two young children, is one of the chief questions before the grand jury, which took up Mrs. Rogers' case today. District Attorney Martin will ask for an indictment for murder, first degree, against Mrs. Rogers today.

One of the most important witnesses is a druggist, A. Di Bell, at whose store, 141 Boscobel avenue, Mrs. Rogers' husband bought the tablets. Di Bell was subpoenaed today to produce his record book of poison sales.

If the district attorney succeeds in getting his indictment, Mrs. Rogers, who is under police guard at the Lehigh Valley Hospital, where she is recovering from the poison she took when she gave it to the children, will be arraigned without delay.

To Be Co-respondent. It was announced today that Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers, Rogers' legal wife and a sister of Prof. Giddings, of Columbia University, has been subpoenaed to get a divorce. Emory J. Buckner has prepared the case, and Mrs. Walters will be named as co-respondent.

Prosecutor Martin admitted today that the chance of getting a first degree indictment, or an indictment for murder in any degree, was slight. He said publicly that he was not personally in sympathy with the woman, and that he himself did not relish the task of prosecuting her for murder. He said, however, that the crime was a crime demanding energetic prosecution.

Mrs. Martin has forbidden Rogers to see the woman for the time being. He thinks they should be kept apart. He is now conferring with Abraham Levy, criminal lawyer, who has been retained to defend Mrs. Walters.

Woman to Plead Insanity. It has been pretty well established that the woman will be insane. Although nothing definite has been announced, this has been reported by persons in the confidence of the principals in the case.

The attitude of Rogers toward the woman is still a problem. With a lawyer's knowledge of the value of silence to one who is in trouble, he has refrained from making public statements.

If the grand jury indicts Mrs. Walters, she will be arraigned today. There is no legal bar to the ceremony being performed if the present Mrs. Rogers is sane.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

Miss Addams and other social workers called on President Wilson yesterday to veto the immigration bill. They were hopeful from his reply.

TAKE DOWN AFTER

French Efforts Crowned with Success at Perthes-les-Hurlus.

LOCATED NEAR RAILWAY

Victory Here Makes Up for Failure to Advance at Other Points, Says Correspondent.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald. London, Jan. 11.—A special correspondent of the London Times sends the following dispatch from a point behind the allied center.

"An exceptionally hard month's work has just been crowned triumphantly by the capture of Perthes-les-Hurlus.

The history of the taking of this village, situated about half way between Rheims and Verdun, illustrates admirably the determined effort the French are making throughout the front, and the difficulties by which they are being confronted.

"Now that the village of Perthes has been captured and the French positions made good around the place it is reasonable to expect that a further advance will be made and that the line at this point will be pushed forward until it is on a level with those of the other advances which have been proceeding around the north of Meuse-les-Hurlus and Beaulieu.

Great stores of guns, ammunition and other provisions fell into the hands of the French. A considerable section of the zone will be completely under the fire of the French guns and this will be rendered useless for the passage of supplies.

Undoubtedly it is on account of its geographical situation near the railway and its consequent importance that the French have been given Perthes-les-Hurlus such importance.

This success goes far to compensate for the less profitable operations elsewhere. The French are now in a position where there has been a serious setback.

In the Rheims region, to the northwest of that city, they have had the better of the situation. The French have been able to capture the village of Perthes-les-Hurlus, and the fact that they were announced recently to have advanced to the north of La Saigne, near Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has become a "man's land," but a direct attempt to dislodge the Germans from these heights, which have been the scene of such damage to the town has come, has been fruitless.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.

Between Rheims and Perthes, however, the situation is not so serious. I am told on first rate authority that Cernay-l'Evêque, which lies between the city of Rheims, Berry-au-Bac and Nogent-l'Haroux, has been captured. The French have now crossed the Aisne River and the Marne Canal.